Explanations. Elmer's Plain was N. of Batcheller's brook, in S. H.
Bachelor Plain was N. of same brook farther east, in G. ?

Slipe swamp, is the great swamp in Springfield, S. Hadley & Granby.
Pentamamache meadow comes with Bachelors brook – extends South.
Round Hill was the evergreen steep peak, east of Road over Mt. Holyoke.
A road of some kind, for oxen & horses, went over the mountain 1760, &c. It is said to have gone early Round Hill, & between that and Nonotuck.
p. 31. Leaping Well is a boiling spring on the Plain, early the 4 Corners, or old Sp. road. Its head of Leaping well brook, which comes into Hadley Brook – runs east, road by Butts place.
1858 Sept. Mayo in S. Hadley informed me that Leaping well is a boiling Spring on the Slipe plain – the brook stream over a mile in length. Near Calvin Lyon or the Collins.

South Hadley South Line.

Mar 17. 1848. The S.H. canal village has some houses in Springfield below the town line. The line is just north of the landing at the swing ferry below the falls, the ferry itself being in Springfield. A bound stone by the road. I went east on this line up a hill and on a sort of plain, mostly by fence & ditch to a fence & ditch running north, about 180 rods from the river I conclude. I suppose this was the corner of Pynchons 500 acres. This was a broken country; hills & vallies. Timber yellow pine, oaks chestnuts, ~~chestnuts~~ some walnuts, maples, white pine, hemlock poplar, birch. Crossed a small brook from S.E. in a deep ravine. This line extended ~~eastern~~ easterly across river strikes the hill above the new city, where excavations have been made. A clear pine plain commenced at corner of Pynchons 500 acres, ~~and~~ extended about half a mile to the old road to Springfield by Butts place. A stone west of road. On this road, an old house appears about 80 rods south of the line, in Springfield (was Hinks's) and two or more houses appear in S. Hadley about 100 rods north of the line, near where Butterly brook crosses the road. The plain is mostly cleared. The 2d growth is white birch generally, some other trees. I followed the fences &c near the line, east of the Springfield road and came to Butterly Brook about half a mile east of the road, or perhaps less. This brook comes from Springfield & runs N.W. but continues some distance about west near the line, then turns, perhaps W.N.W. & runs to the houses before noticed. Some moist land by sides of the brook that is not a pine plain.

A plain road runs N & S. about 3/4 of a mile east of the other. Lean, poor land. Some blowing sand.

Another plain road N & S. 80 rods further east. I continue easterly, probably in Springfield, till I came to the great Slipe Swamps, & could proceed no farther. The timber is mostly gone from the swamps, that is, the large timber. Hackmatack & White pines grow in swamps.

This S.E. part of South Hadley is a succession of pine plains & light ridges of sandy land, intermingled with swamps. Some grain is sown, not much. The plains are worn out and in many places are blowing sands. Lupines cover many acres, and blue violets are plenty. There is not much timber growing, except white birch. I attempted two or three times to follow a ridge into Slipe swamps, hoping to be able to cross, but was obliged to retreat and go farther north to go round on north side of the swamps.

My Walk, May 17. in South Hadley &c. continued.

The sandy ridges & swamps came to an end, somewhere near the Granby line, or S.W. corner of Granby. I descended into a level of better land, in Granby, into what may be called the valley of Stony Brook. There is a long valley of mowing land 10 to 20 or 30 rods wide, by the side of the brook, some of it boggy, grass mostly carex. There is a higher, wider level each side of the other. This upper level on N. side extends far southerly, cleared, & is apparently east of Slipe swamp. That fine street in Granby running S.E. & N.W. or S.S.E. & N.N.W. is on higher land, east of Stony brook and nearly parallel with it. Their farms seem to extend down to the brook and over. Their lands now look well, and fruit trees in blossom. The brook is now a large stream, runs here about N.N.W. I struck the Brook perhaps half a mile north of Springfield line, and may be 3 miles East of Conn. river.

I followed down the brook more than half a mile, was on both sides — and then went westerly across woods and fields till I came to an old road in South Hadley running N. & S. — formerly went down to Chickopee river, & some have it so now to the tractor — (the east road which I noticed near the line, is probably a continuation of it.) It also formerly came out to a road from Granby leading to the S. H. Canal, but that has been carried farther north. The most southern house on this road is very old — was built by a Snow, it is said. — now occupied by a Miller.

I followed this road north & northwest toward meeting house — passed the road from Granby to S. Hadley Canal. Came upon a hill without a name where were houses & farms. A fine prospect — On N.E. Stony brook runs in a valley, which is pleasant; mowing land, not wide, on the borders; & sloping hills on both sides. Female Seminary N.W. and Prospect Hill N.W. — all hills & valleys westerly are of a fine green

Stony Brook runs as far north as the meeting House in S. H. or a little more north, then turns southerly by paper mill, & is about 25 or 30 rods easterly of meeting house & paper mill; & is still farther, perhaps, east of the Seminary. Has a bends farther south, one where Stephen White made satinet, and one, I believe, for Dr Hastings Sash factory.

My Walk in South Hadley May 17.

Appearance of Holyoke range east of Creek, from the hill just noticed.

Elevations or peaks, No 1. 2. 3. 4. 5 are quite distinct. most of the back side of No 5. is cleared; much has been done within one or two years. Cleared of wood only. The little Mountain top was in the line from me to peak No 3. or S.S.E of No 3. The peak was plain above Little Mountain, but on lower ground this top would hide No 3, and in some situations, might hide No. 2. or No 4. Peaks 6. 7. 8. 9 are quite distinct. There is not a deep valley between 8 & 9 — East of No. 9 appears the sandstone top of the mountain, low; the evergreen, greenstone peak is a little farther east — next come sub-peak No 10, and great peak No. 11 — next 2 or 3 humps east of No 11. and long high top extending to road over the mountain. Some clearing appears on No. 6. — East of this road, appears the evergreen sharp peak, and farther east Mt. Norwottuck.

Walk in South Hadley, May 18.

Fences of old Falls Woods Lots are nearly E. & W. by pocket compass. Falls Woods Field. The east end of lots was Stony brook for a mile at least below the mouth of the brook. The mouth of Stony brook is more than half a mile farther north than the meeting house, and the brook runs half a mile more South of the meeting house, before it turns westerly. Runs runs N.N.E. for miles. The point west of Meeting house in Falls woods road, is near ½ mile South of Stickney's red house. A broad tract of land, between this road & river. Much white oak grew here & other oak, chestnut. Much white birch in 2d growth. Struck river opposite Bates' place. Walked in a foot-path near river, in the woods a mile or more to head of canal. A pleasant walk, among flowers, trees and bird music. Timber of these woods is chestnut, white & other oak; birch, black, ovate white, and deltoid white; great bett poplar, many; ash; walnut; Swamp white oak by a swamp; witch hazel; flowering dogwood all white with involucres; alternate dogwood; Azalea nudiflora; shadbush; maple, some white pine & hemlock; laurel &c.

Walk in South Hadley, May 18. 1848.

Head of canal is about 80 rods above the Falls or dam - perhaps 100 rods; seems by pocket compass about half a mile south of the high part of Mount Tom. River & canal are here about N. & S. - River has turned a little - is about S.S.W. & N.N.E. higher up: just above the falls, the river turns to S.E. & canal. Dam is S.S.W. and N.N.E. and river below is E.S.E. The next turn is South, and the lower half mile, or lower rapids, the river runs S.E. At the bottom of falls it turns to the South. The new dam across the river will be N.E. and S.W. - some distance above the foot of the falls. There are the upper falls or rapids, near the old dam, and the lower falls or rapids above & below the new dam, that is to be. The river is not very rough between. Water is high now.

There is a road from the head of the canal to the village not by the side of the canal, but it turns easterly over the hill. No path on east side of canal. The travelled path for footmen is between the canal and river, and I went on this. There is much timber growing on this strip of land, but they are cutting it off. The river poplar is here; button ball, very much injured & some killed by disease of late years; some White maples; dogwood all white with its flowers so called; other dogwood; Oak, chestnut, beech, elm, &c. Canal is full of timber, boards shingles, &c for the new city, I suppose. There is a feeder for the canal beginning at the dam, & a sawmill, some distance below dam seems fed by this water. There are two houses on the east side of canal, upper part. Canal is said to be 2 miles in length - very crooked as the river is - does not perhaps gain over a mile, if so much, to the south. A foundation for a factory is laying some distance above the old mills, and also where old mills were - for paper mill, it is said.

On opposite side of river, is a deep ravine in the high bank, called the "Money Hole". Tradition says money was counterfeited there in former days. This Hole may be ¼ mile above the lower falls - between upper & lower.

Walk in South Hadley May 18.

Pynchon's old grant of 500 acres in S.W. corner of present South Hadley was 180 rods in Springfield line; east line was 246 rods; and south line 460 rods. The river was the west line. I walked on the 180 rods. May 17th; and 18th went along most of the 460 rods. Much of it is still a division line, & runs nearly E & W. It takes in the house where Mr Lamb lives, a large white house south of where the two roads going north now part, but cannot be many rods south of his house — maybe 10 — possibly 20. The east end of this line, or S.E. corner of the 500 acres is at the edge of the pine plain, about 20 rods north of the road that goes easterly from the canal village. From this point the east line extends south to Springfield line — a fence now, 3/4 of a mile or 240 rods. The 500 acres (including) all the Canal village, except a little in Springfield.

Butterly Brook comes down the hill east of the road (Cannedy (was Bardwell's) unites with a small brook that comes from the north in a deep valley; & after being used at the tannery passes southeasterly to the Connecticut, through the village. It is now a considerable stream, but brooks are high.

The Plain east of Canal village is a miserable plain; deep sand, & hard road to travel — not a hard road, but a soft one. Yellow pines are all that grow on it, or nearly all. The road from the Canal village (over 3/4 of a mile) intersects the old road to Springfield about 1/2 a mile east of the 500 acres, or 1 1/2 miles from the village. The plain becomes more hard & compact & roads much better about the intersection. Houses are seen south on the road to Springfield which were not to be seen on the 17th. This four corners may be a mile north of Springfield line, or over 3/4 of a mile.

Guide board here say — 3 miles to Granby; 10 to Belchertown; 8 to Northampton; 9 to Hadley; 10 to Springfield 1 1/2 to canal village.

I followed the north road to South Hadley meeting house by the old Butts place — perhaps 2 miles or more. It was all pine plain until I came to the Butts farm, which has good land, lower than the plain south of it. Meeting house was not far from North of the four corners on the plain.

p 26 Leaping well brook runs north 1/2 a mile east of the road I came on. I examined the lower part of it. There on the plain S.E. a boiling spring. Stream is now of some size.

Information respecting the region about the Falls in former days. May 17.

From Mr Joseph Ely, who lives in W. Springfield, only a little distance below the falls, on the Field, or Plain. He was born in October 1756, will be 92 next October. When he was young, his father Joseph and uncle Benjamin owned & lived on the Field & cleared it — none lived there 80 years ago (I think he said). This was a pine region 70 or 80 years ago — not much large timber — much thatch grass. Wood was thin & not large in the region around he thinks, owing to former fires. They used to sow rye & plant corn on the Field — He married when 31, removed to Vermont and remained 2 years returned & built the house he lives in 59 years ago, or 1789. There were then about here four other families, viz. Mr. Frink (John he thinks) Asahel Chapin, Capt. Joseph Day, Gideon Jones.

On the South Hadley side was William Taylor on the top of the hill; Daniel Lamb, father of Ezekiel & Daniel. Titus Pomeroy on road going east.

Landings. Old Hampton landing was the place where goods for Northampton & vicinity were landed. There was a landing at the foot of Willemanset falls where Hadley & eastern towns went. Before locks & canal were made, they sometimes poled boats over Willemanset rapids, & landed goods at foot of South Hadley falls on east side. It was a laborious work. Lumber from up the river was carried by the falls (not logs) and goods were carted by to go up.

Shad. Vast numbers were caught on the falls, in scoop nets — most were so caught, though seines were used some, below. The boats were dragged by men to a good place on the falls, filled with shad, and then taken to the shore, emptied & brought back again. Mr Ely said he had taken 7000 in a day in a scoop net. (I think he must be mistaken). Salmon were caught in pots or pens at foot of falls. Shad sold at 2 and 3 coppers each.

About the Falls — continued

Fishing — continued. Mr Ely had known shad caught as early as April 15, but fishing generally began between April 15 and May 1. From May 10 to 20 was the best fishing season. Great companies of men came from all directions after shad — some from Sandisfield and towns about there. Both sides of the river were full of people in the shad season. All houses were full, and the fish sheltes, & pastures full of horses, & barns also. Some brought victuals with them; many cooked & eat shad. Shad were carried away on horseback in bags — a few carts came.

M.Ely 206

Salmon were caught until the upper dam was built. (as Miller's falls, he called it — Turner's probably.) He had known none over 30 pounds — some 20, and many from 6 to 10.

Some Bass used to be caught after shad time — not many. Sturgeon were taken with spears on the falls also after shad time. Some weighed 200 lbs.

M.M.14 206

Lamprey Eels came after Shad — were taken on the falls by hand — & still are — are not much eaten about here, but go to Southwick, Simsbury and towns in Connecticut.

Loons used to be on the falls after fish, — screamed.

Mr. Ely believed they formerly took out salmon & threw shad back, sometimes. He had known an instance of it

May 18. From Justin Alvord, who lives south of meeting house, not half a mile. Was born Nov 1763 — will be 85 next Nov. He is a son of Job Alvord.

Job Alvord built the first house at Willemanset now standing. He was 2 miles from inhabitants both north and south. He kept a public house, & had a great deal of custom. The Willemanset landing was west of him, & that was a place of much business. He built it in 1761, the same year that S. Hadley built a meeting house in part, & had it cut down in part. Landing right west of house. Then all goods were landed there. It was later that boats were poled over Willemanset falls, before canal was built. Job Alvord lived there only 10 or 12 years. He was a Captain in revolutionary service, and died in his 60th year, Jany 1789. Had only one son, Justin, and one daughter Lucina born 1771. Who married Solomon Lyman & settled up the river. She living. This Lyman did not belong to Northampton Lymans, Justin says. Job's wife, a daughter of Samuel Smith.

Shad. He says vast numbers were taken on the falls in scoop nets – below in seines. The river was full of shad. Had heard of their drawing shad ashore with a crooked stick in former days. He says they did formerly (but not in his time) take out the salmon, and let the shad go into the river again. People were ashamed to eat shad, or to have it known that they ate them. This was owing in part to the disgrace of being out of pork. Alvord says he has sold thousands for 3 coppers each, and threw many back. Salmon were sold from 2d to 3 per pound, but buyers were scarce. (He refers to what took place after the revolution.) The greatest haul of shad that he ever knew was at the Hadley wharf so called below the falls; 3300 were taken (Mr Ely said 3500.) It was not very uncommon to take from 1500 to 2000, (Mr Ely said) Mr Alvord had taken thousands on the falls with scoop nets; he thinks 2000 to 3000 a day was a good days work – does not talk of 7000 as Mr Ely did. Salmon were also taken in scoops – and in seines, – and formerly in pens.

Some Bass were taken with hooks after shad were gone; and some Sturgeon on the falls with spears. Lamprey eels were taken to Simsbury & other towns in that vicinity. m. 11. 204
They are now plenty on the falls, & many taken in the night with torches.

Shad seasons were great times on both sides of the river. The shores were full of men & horses. At a certain time, it was said there were 1500 horses on each side of the river – (too high by half, undoubtedly) Shad were carried off in bags. Some stayed two or three days and had a frolic. Indeed, not a few came for the purpose of having a frolic. Mr Alvord mentions MacCallock of Pelham (the one tried for treason, &c) as one of the frolicking class. Rum was plenty. Houses in neighborhood were all filled. Mr A. thinks Daniel Lamb and Titus Pomeroy kept tavern. He referred to shad times both before and after the locks & canal were built – Down to 1800 and after, these shad seasons continued.

T.R. 170. Transportation of lumber & goods, by the Falls. Mr. Alvord thinks all the carting by the falls was on the east side of the river. The carting would have been much further on the west side. Before locks & canal were made rafts of boards came down to the head of the canal, & near where it now is, and the boards were carted thence down to the foot of the falls, & put in rafts again, and passed over Willemansit falls. But other things, going up and down, were carted from the mouth of Stony brook to the landing at Willemansett, or from the latter to the former. Boards were sometimes carted this distance. Sometimes there was carting from the mouth of Stony brook to the foot of South H. Clay falls, & from the latter to the former. Much was sent down from S. H. falls over Willemansett rapids before much was piled up. Mr. A. says boats came up to landing at S. H. falls before canal was made, but it was tedious work. The carting was at first from Stony brook down to Willemansett landing, before it was to S. H. falls, Mr. A. thinks — does not know — when a raft came down teams in S. H. turned out to cart the lumber. Had much business that way.

p. 93 of this v. 97

p. 93

SH. 82. Sawmills. Mr. Alvord says there were two sawmills near the falls before canal was made. Others say the same. The lower one, owned by Pomeroy & Lamb, was where the late grist mill, paper mill, &c. stood: the upper one owned by Wm Taylor was about west of his house. [Mr. Alvord has an idea there was a grist mill also with the lower sawmill; others do not say so.]

Nobody lived at Falls, before canal was made.

1 Daniel Lamb had a house, half way to the Tannery. (The Lamb house by the river was built afterwards — belonged to Daniel's son. He had sons Daniel & Ezekiel.)

2 Samuel Taylor lived near present Tannery. [For when Robinson was dead — afterwards] Had son Samuel.

3 William Taylor lived on top of hill, on falls wood road,

4 Titus Pomeroy lived above & east of Tanner — on side hill.

These 4 on the 5 Acres.

[According to Gardner Preston, who remembered back much further, Samuel Taylor lived when Robinson died afterwards (at Tannery), and Joshua Taylor lived when Daniel Lamb afterwards (Joshua died 1760) see above. and Joseph Taylor near Joshua. Mr. Alvord did not remember Jos. & never said nothing about him.

Mr Ely knew about the 2 Springfield men, who had their ears cropped for passing counterfeit money, at Newport R.I. Had seen one or both of them, though they were old when he was young. They behaved well after & posterity are respectable. He connected them with the "money hole", but probably without reason.

Baptists. Mr. Ely was a baptist from the age of 21. — his father was a baptist. When he first settled at the Field 9 years after, (1789 and after) there was occasionally a baptist preacher at Daniel Lamb's on the east side of the river. Lamb was a baptist. Ely & his family used to go over on the Sabbath and attend meeting at Lambs. Mr. Haskell was the preacher in those days.

Farming. When he was young, the manure in W.S. was put on the homelots in grass — not on corn. Grass was raised on the meadows, and corn. No grass seed sown. no mowings but meadows & homelots. Some wheat was raised, but much more rye, & more corn than both. On Pine plain where he lives, they used to plant corn and sow rye alternately, until they run down the land. Got for some years 15 to 20 bushels corn and 8 to 10 bushels rye on an acre. He carted 9 of wheat flour to Worcester in Rev. war.

Hunting. Not a great deal when he was young. There were some hunters. Some deer & turkies — wolves very rare, now & then a bear. Raccoons plenty.

Mr Ely says his grandfather (is not certain about his name) was wounded by Indians in some place up the river. Thinks he was with Capt. Stevens or Stephen. [Rev. Soldier 1775]

Mr Ely's wife died Oct 1847. aged 80 — he 11 years oldest. She a Smith from Sandisfield.

[illegible] 378

Hedges. I saw on line of S. Hadley & Springfield or near it, fences made of white birches, 10 to 20 feet long. A stake is drove down every 2 or 3 feet in a line. Then birches with the limbs on, are interwoven with the stakes, ~~perpendicularly~~ ~~with the~~ ~~butts~~ ~~one~~ ~~half~~ one half are on north side of every other stake, & south side of the other stakes. Other half is on south side & north side alternately — so each stake is kept upright by having three on both sides. The birches are not horizontal but slanting upwards.

A later writer in the record says, "the second Parish being set off & made a Town by themselves the first Parish declared to be a Parish, and a man a district by themselves. Then a a book for Parish records was erected. and the Proprietors of South Hadley & Granby purchased this book to keep their records in.
So that from this p[age] (10th) forward, the records are Proprietors records."

But was Granby made a town, when South Hadley was only a district?

Holt's Statistics says South Hadley was made a district - April 12. 1753. — the last that Granby was made a Town June 11. 1768.
Hadden 2d Parish in So. Hadley. Church formed in 1762 — it became 2d parish in 1762. was it more than a district in 1768?

Small pox in South Hadley

Mrs. Bohen Clark says, 1858, that Gideon Alvord had the small pox in the army; came home with clothing not cleaned; his mother washed them and took the disorder and died with it. The selectmen sent and inquired a woman in Greenwich if she had had the small pox, to take care of her. The husband was indignant & it is said to have purposely left a small pox garment at the house of Ephraim Smith who was concerned in the nursing, & Johanna had the disease and others of the family were inoculated, or had it without, but none died. Whether in French war or Revolutionary war Mrs. Clark does not know. Probably French war. Some things in Mrs. Clark's story may be erroneous. [was in 1757.

1859. Ephraim Smith age 76 died, nearly the same story. Has Pelham for Greenwich

S. B. 55 The Lamb Family & others Towards the Falls

Daniel Lamb—his first wife a large, portly woman a Pendleton by name. After her death, Lamb married a second wife, ugly in person and appearance and in disposition: squint eyed, indelicate, selfish.

Lamb was a Baptist, & sometimes had preaching in his barn-room. A Pendleton, brother of first wife, takes the preaching. Mrs Clark when a girl, sometimes went down to Lambs to meeting—it was about south of her father's. She sometimes went down & saw them immerse persons in the river, about where they caught shad.

Daniel Lamb had sons Daniel, Ezekiel, Roswell, Pendleton. Of these two years Roswell & Pendleton removed Latter began to study for college, but did not continue.

2 daughters of D. Lamb—Roxa married Frederic Chapin of Chicopee

Polly married a Capt. Wells from up the river

2 Pendletons, brothers of Mrs Lamb, lived for a time, Mrs C. thinks a little below ferry place, perhaps in Springfield, perhaps on higher ground than near the river. One was the Baptist minister.

Two first houses in present village were 1st House built by or for Ezekiel Lamb, near Buttery Brook; & 2d a house was brought from below, or timber of an old house, & pierced on other side of Buttery brook—by Samuel Taylor.

Capt. John Bennett kept a tavern early at the Canal. Those who came to Canal went to Bennets—She had attended balls there. A place of much company. She thinks Bennett was there before Bardwell.

Making Canal & so many workmen made a market for Falls Woods. Her father sold much there as did others.

Highways.

Highways laid out S. of Mt Holiokt April 20. 1722 by Samuel Porter Esq. Lt. J. Smith & Exp. Porter

1st R. on at run of water called Leapingwell, where it crosses the country road leading to Springfield & runs easterly across meadow & up hill & continued - and leaves it & came to highway what runs easterly out of ~~county~~ road and crosses Stony brook at the head of old Mill pond - 8 rods wide - Took this road crossed Stony brook again (path only) then southerly to Long brook where was a bridge formerly - from said bridge across low land towards lower end of J. Pratt's; then S.E. with crooks to S. end of great meadow. The way thro' Mr. Pratt's went on part of this road Sept 13. 1858

2. Easterly from Cold hill to end of bounds as old path runs, with some alteration. This is Pichawamicke road 8 rods wide. "This is called by the name of Pichawamicke road" says the record. This must be present road to Amherst — turns out from road to Granby my house northerly, beyond Cold Hill & runs S.E. of Pichawamicke meadows, & goes N.E. near Bachelor's lot & continues Sept 13. 1858 — Possibly they meant this road to old meeting house in G. & so Pomeroy ... adow much farther S. than it now seems to go.

3d Road

(From Pichawanicke road S. by W. beginning at S.W. corner of Pichawanicke meadow, & running as trees are marked, with some turns, till it comes to highway that leads to S. end of great meadow. 8 rods wide (Vol. No 1.

4th. Highway turnout of County road to Springfield 20 & 25 rods northerly of the running water called Lubbers Hole — W. 10. N. or thereabouts to a convenient place for crossing Stony Brook into Falls Woodfield Road 4 rods wide

5. Began at a hornelot, turned out by Pichawanicke road N.E. — to a hornelot — 8 rods wide

6. Began at Hubbards path or road that leads from Pichawanicke road northerly and N.E. over Bachelors river to highway upon Elmore's brook

7. Turned out by the last highway southeasterly to a hornelot, then easterly — & then northerly — came to a run of water from S.W. corner Pichawanicke meadow up the hill — various courses — till we met the next easterly footpath, which comes over Mount Holyoke at the Round Hill Creek, so called. Then turned & returned — came to brow of hill of Bachelors river, then near said river to east party our bounds. 8 rods wide

8. A highway turned out by aforesaid highway near Bachelors river, & away south to Stony hill, & another hill what we call millstone hill — came to Pichawanache road. 8 rods wide

9. Highway to middle part of Great Meadow from Pichawanicke road, crossed Taylors brook ascended a hill, & on to middle party meadow on N. side

10. Westerly side of Great meadow

11. West side of Pichawanuke meadow

12. Westerly side long meadow

13. N. & W. side of North Plenty Great meadow till it comes to Pichawanicke road

14. Westerly side of Stony Brook, runs southerly by land that is upon that brook to S. end of Town ship. This turns out from 1st highway

15. Highway [illegible] swamp pasture land at N. end of great meadow

16. Highway turnout S[illegible] old road "up the hill north of the Shading place" (shading place used before), running [illegible] to various lots

17. Highway turnout of highway leading over Bachelors Falls upon Elmer's plain, running easterly on north side of Bachelors river ~~[illegible]~~ to east bound

18. Highway [illegible] Round Hill creek, over beach &c., even when foot path crosses it at the lower going over, to the S[illegible] highway

19. Highway on east side of [illegible] wood & field fence for convenience of ingress & egress 1 rod wide.

20. A highway from one man's land to another many times [illegible] just highway

21 A highway from the county road, leading to Spring field down to Falls wood field — turning out of the county road about the Shading Trees, south of Leaping well & runs west where the best going is, & so meets with the south highway that comes out of said field

"County Road or Street," is once used.

p. 73-55 Account of Meadow Land [illegible] out in 1722

In Stony brook meadow. — 13 lots bounded easterly upon Stony brook, and westerly upon a highway

In Chaplin's meadow — 11 lots, having common land East and West.

b. 73. 4 miles Square

Deac John Smith said Oct 1725, that running the east line of the 4 miles square had cut off part of his land, in his first choice. He might take up this whole westerly said line, joining the hill, when he took it at first. * East above must mean west. Or did he mean another 4 miles square?

* It is not certain that the Crank was called 4 Miles Square. I think above 4 miles square was not the crank.

1753 Crank was east of Great meadow. Some lots E. on crank. Crank & around it seems poor land - but some "choices" adjoin crank Observations, Sept. 13. 1858.

The low land with a small stream, called Hubbes Hole is still known by that name. It begins by the road that goes over the hill northward by the Col. Woodbridge house, some rods below or South of that house, and some north of the corner when the road turns westerly. The Woodbridge house is perhaps 20 rods N.N.E of the corner. This wet dingle or narrow swamp, crosses the road that goes N.E. towards Hadley & continues down in rear of the buildings & lots, to Stony river. It is both N. & W. of meeting house.

Street from Corner to Stony brook & Leaping well brook.

48 rods from corner southward to burying yard, by stores & shops
18 " burying yard is so much on road

22 8 Stony river comes to the road. About this the river is some distance from the road. The hill near the river on E side extends above here — comes from as low as mouth of Leaping well.
30 rods below is another dam — seems not to carry a wheel.
14 rods further — seems to have been an old road or carting place
22 rods further goes to S. side of Bridge over Stony brook
26 rods further goes down to road that goes West, north of Butts pt. edge, & to Leaping well brook, which crosses the road a little above this road, & 6 rods above that, a road that turns E. & S. beginning 10 rods below bridge — goes over low land, 4 or 5 rods south to S. end of Butts pt. & Leaping well & then down N. or a branch does [illegible] down
32 0 rods or a mile from the road near old Butts pt. goes up the hill & opposite meeting house, to corner, where the road turns N.E. & N.W. to Connecticut, one branch, and one towards Hadley and E. & S. The mouth of this road is opposite road that goes easterly by Alfred Judd's & turns northerly by Col. Woodbridge's house.

A sort of Triangle in the centre. Road divides to W. or N.W. and E. or S.E. Between two corners is nearly 40 rods, but less in a straight line. Near half of this, or 12 or 15 rods, is N. side of Triangle before road turns N.E. & N.W. The road or street that comes up from Stony brook turns N.E. along by Meeting house, & still more beyond the Triangle, to the corner below Col. Woodbridge house; & is a little N.E. still further.

This road from Stony brook & over the hill by the Woodbridge house, was intended for the principal, central, public way, necessary to get round Hubbes Hole & to get upon the hill. The road on county maps has not great bend at centre.

Observations Sept 13. 1858.

Great Meadow. — I rode almost round this swamp, or on three sides a 2½. It extends north up to the vicinity of present meeting house — perhaps 80 rods south of it, & goes south a mile and a half perhaps. Is irregular — sometimes wide sometimes narrow, & has branches out from sides. Some is covered with green grass, some with bushes and bushes, & some is ploughed. Has hills or high lands around it & highways, as in the old records.

Little Meadow is near it, as I was told.

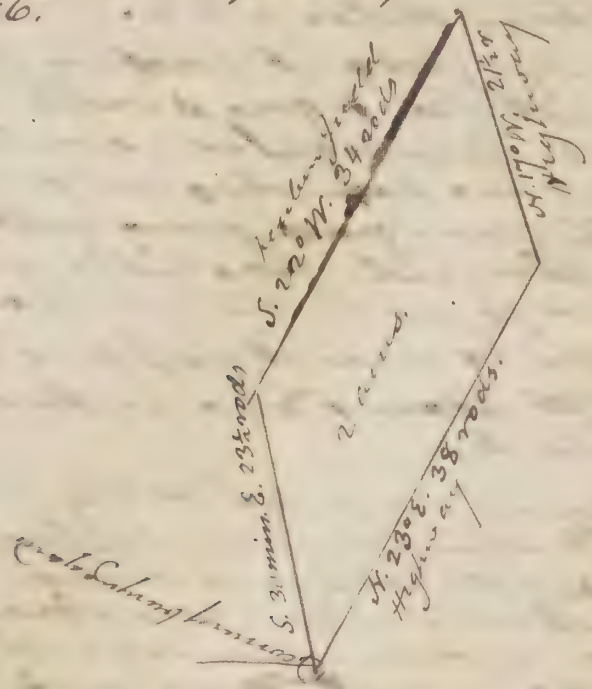
Long meadow seems to be unknown to the present inhabitants.

Sept 25. 1858. I again went to S. Hadley. Visited Mrs. Powers (Gardner Preston's daughter) Mr Collins'; the old road west by the tavern & shops — the cross road from Main Street over the river & hill, & the Road to Moody corner. Called upon Deac. M. Montague at his former abode, on Moody corner road; went onto Phinny Moody's; He showed me Moody corner & the old Daniel Moody house & land — a large red gambrel roofed house. S of Bachelors Brook, — the old mill place — the site of the first Ebenezer Moody house which was burnt & persons there & other houses, north of the brook. Old Daniel Moody house has split shaved clapboards. Grist mill had been turned into a paper mill and burnt; only a sawmill remains. An open road goes from Moody corner northerly to the meadows, and a road goes up the brook, & a branch goes over the mountain at the crack.

Distances — below meeting house — Old meeting house was in front of this, where the road runs now not very crooked from Stony brook by center to over Chileab's hill.

Cross road to Stony brook below gristmill, & over the hill, is 70 or 80 rods from the brook west to main street. Then on street it is about 105 rods to Female Seminary, and Seminary is 10 rods long; & it is 40 rods to center of meeting house from the Seminary. [This does not agree with it this side: something wrong.] It is 40 rods or thereabouts from Burying yard to middle of Smith's tavern, & 8 rods north to corner, or more. — about 100 rods from cross road to Stony brook to burying yards. This 100 rods is only 66 rods opposite.

Lot N. of burying yard, & east of Meeting house square in South Hadley — Laid out 1784. See page 67. David Turner sent the same primeter day 1760, & said it was conveyed to Josiah Goodman. Hence a strip 2 rods wide was added to N. end in 1786.



In 1783 the town voted to allow Rev. Joel Hayes "all the land we order now surveyed by [illegible] meeting house according as it is planned except what belongs to Levi Morgan" If Joel Hayes land was conveyed in 1783, how could a lot be [illegible] 38 rods long, south of it in 1784? It cannot be 38 rods from the Hayes lot to burying yard. I think it was this [illegible] of 1784 the old highway that was in use at present to? perhaps so, & the Hayes lot went west only to the Highway Sept. 25. 1858. — Conversation with Mr Collins, aged 79 yr in 79th year. He was born in Northampton under the Mountain, this father removed to S. Hadley when he was 3 months old — about 1780 — was a Painter & mason.

Fishing.

He relates the old story of saving the salmon and throwing the shad back. — Says there were in his younger years, three fishing places forabove the falls in Sth Hadley. viz. One at or near the mouth of Stony Brook, but the net was in the Connecticut. 24 salmon were once caught here at one haul from 6 or 8 lbs up to 45 — he says the largest weighed 45 lbs. Perhaps they averaged 15 lbs. & so all weighed 360 lbs. There were two fishing places in S. Hadley above this at Stony Brook — one was west of Cook's Hill. He had seen them fish at S. H. falls before the canal was built — mentioned three places or Wharves at the foot of the falls — Wharves built for this purpose. 3000 were taken at one haul. The water was sometimes full of them, and the canoes could hardly put an oar into the water without striking a shad. He had seen them fish on the falls also — Thinks there was not so much dissipation as mentioned by Elly & Woodward.

p. 63. "At the fish place on the Great River, above the mouth of Bachelors". 1771.

Oct 18. 1858. Perez Smith says there were in his day, fishing places against Cook's hill and near Stony brook; also two places between Stony brook and head of Canal; also below the falls; and had seen them fish on the falls, when a boy. They caught many salmon — some at these places below & above Stony brook, & on the falls. Salmon fishing came first — before shad fishing.

Walter Stickney says, (Nov. 22. 1858) that it was a great place for fishing, a little above the mouth of Stony brook, shad and salmon. — Thinks there was no seine at the falls, that caught more — another place where many salmon were taken in was shad too, was against Cook's hill — This plenty of fish was chiefly before his day — though many were caught also. If his father kept tavern, it was chiefly in reference to fishing season when many people came after fish.

Canal Village

Mr Collins thinks there were only three houses at the village when he was a boy. Daniel Lamb kept a tavern above the house which he built for his son Ezekiel which was gambrel roofed. A Taylor lived up some distance on the west side — towards head of falls. He said something of Simeon Pomeroy living at or near where Robinson died!

Falls Roads.

This field was a fenced field; and the people did not cultivate their lands very thoroughly p. 96 but did a great business in carting by the falls 97 up & down. They obtained much of their living in this way, before the canal was made. This spoiled their business, and they began to cultivate their lands better, to fence them, &c. and the fences of the old field & gates were not kept up by the company as before, & the gates were not kept up at all upon public roads. Deac. Moses Montague related these things, which he had heard from others — They could down below Willimansett rapids, but sometimes only to the foot of the great falls.

In Feb. 1754 there was a petition to the County Court of Sessions for a highway by the Great Falls in South Hadley. It was referred to the next sessions. Nothing was done

Aug. 1764. Elisha Porter of Hadley, Gent. petitions the County Sessions for a road by the Falls — said there was no town or county road there, & there was great need of a public road or carrying place by the Falls — a private road was used by the inhabitants — the only one that could be used to transport goods by the falls, at present. A committee was appointed — S.H. it was alledged, neglected to lay a road — Ask also for a road to lead from the Springfield road to the road they would lay in Fall Field — See their return on 92d page. They met at house of Dea. John Smith in South Hadley, in Hadley April 1. 1765. He was on the main street or Springfield road.

84. South Hadley. Mills &c

Misc. 12. 1858 Pliny Moody says, Sept. 25. 1858, that he was formerly told by an old man that White pines were formerly very scarce, south of Holyoke, and yellow pines very plenty, 80 or 100 years ago. Much timber in old buildings is pitch pine. [This agrees with what is said about Old Hadley, Hadley 3. 42.]

Deac. Montague thinks the hill called Chileab Hill, on the two roads, North and Northeast, was mostly covered with hard wood trees originally. His ancestors lived on the N.E. road to Moody corner and he did until a few years since, he bought the Col. Woodbridge house.

The pine lands in Hadley were despised and in South Hadley they were considered of little value. The yellow pine lands did not produce grass for cattle, and yielded only light crops of rye.

When Timothy Dwight preached in South Hadley between Mr Woodbridge and Mr Hayes, he was paid in rye. He offended some the good people, because he told them on the Sabbath that he should send for rye on a certain day, and wished to have it ready.

Turkey Tracks in rocks on flat stones are about Pliny Moody's. Some by the side of the road between Pliny Moody's house, and the old red, gambrel roofed house built by Deac. Daniel Moody.

Sand-stone ledges or quarries are on Deac. Montagues old farm, S.W. of Pliny Moody's. The sandstone of the Female seminary was obtained here. So Deac. M. told me.

The "Black Rocks" on the side of the mountain are those almost perpendicular rocks, or high cliffs, where I have stood many times, & viewed the Valley below easterly & southerly.

Pliny Moody has a sawmill on Elmer's brook north of Moody Corner. An open road leads across the plain to this mill, and to the mountain northerly. P.M. thinks this the first sawmill on this brook; people laughed at him for building a mill on so small a stream but he finds water enough generally.

South Hadley. Hills, &c.

* Chileab's Hill is said to have been named from Chileab Smith, son of Preserved. Dea. Montague told me that he lived east and south of where lived formerly — not on the hill but near it, on the Moody corner road. He went to Ashfield, — was an ancestor of Mary Lyon.

Montagues Hill is N.E. of Moody Corner some distance, & not a great distance from the mountain — perhaps east of the crack road — has much chestnut on it. Dea. Montague does not know whether this is the old Montague Hill. It has long been owned by Montagues.

A long, not very high hill, further west, perhaps against the low part of the mountain, is sometimes called Stony Hill. It is rough & rocky.

The Plains north of Batchelors brook for a long distance, is a high plain, far above the streams, & was once covered with yellow pines & some other trees. The land is not the lightest, and the road is not deep sand, but tolerably hard in general. It is one of the better kind of pine plains.

* Dea. Montague says he lived S.E. of his Mr's old residence, more down the hill, but his lot extended up to Chileab's Hill road. His residence would fall in Granby according to old Divisions, (or late lines probably). Even Peter Montague the first settled down the hill — did not long stay there. Was after water perhaps.

Contents of old South Hadley, &c

1858. From the State maps. The east line of Granby from the top of Holyoke to the south line is 2¼ inches or 5 miles and 200 rods. South Hadley is about one eighth of an inch longer or 5 miles and 300 rods, or a little short. Both towns average 3 inches, or 7½ miles from east to west. 7½ × 5⅝ (7½ by 5 5/8 miles) make 42 miles which seems too much. Perhaps 40 square miles are ~~quite~~ enough. 42 miles make about 24,000 acres

or. 3 afterwards came to the conclusion that 42 square miles are not too many Hadley + Amherst, or north of Holyoke — are 3½ inches or 8¾ miles, and further west 3⅜ inches or 8 miles and 140 rods — down north line to top of Holyoke. The width averages 2¼ miles or 2 5/16 inches making 5 miles and 200 or 250 rods. Say 8½ miles by 5½ make about 47 square miles.

Old Amherst at north end is only 1/8 of an ~~inch~~ or 700 rods in length — 600 rods south of north end it is about 800 rods or 2½ miles wide.

South Hadley meeting House.

Hadly p. 231. Damage to the meeting house in 1761 by Granby men.

S.H. 12. In . . . 1761, 29 men of the Granby part of S.H. 121 South Hadley, were bound by Samuel Pynchon, Esq. to appear at the Court of Sessions. They appeared and were all discharged. Some others, that lived about South's West end of the town were among those bound over, Taylors, &c. Had they been rioting on the other side? I suspect so.

Tradition is that two or three sticks of timber were carried away and left near Pelham-ache river down. The S. Hadley must have a story that Home Granby women sat on these sills and sang songs of triumph. Granby people are ignorant of any such doings.

About the meeting house, were only huckleberry bushes, John Stickney said, when he came to South Hadley about 1768. — There was a meeting house & Nash House, and the old meeting house had a family in it. I conclude that there was no house on the west side of the street north of the burying yard 90 Ferry in South Hadley, & Road to it.

In August 1761. some of the people of South Hadley petitioned for a ferry at the mouth of Stony brook, & recommended John Smith 3 as a proper person to keep it, as he lived nearby. The County Sessions referred the subject to the next court, and no notice of the matter appears at the next court, in October.

There seems to have been no public ferry at South Hadley, at this time. John Smith 3 (for he that was killed by Indians was John Smith 2 of Hadley, and lived in the old gambrel roofed Stickney house there or after.

Began at the country road in South Hadley, near William Smiths barn; thence easterly in a private road [perhaps town road] to the foot of Cold hill [still spelled Cold hill] then turned northerly to a saddle in west line of Wm Smiths land 8 rods from his S.W. corner & went into private way — allowed him 2/8. Then in private way near Pole bridge and easterly to (for a common) miry brook, then by marked trees to East side of South Hadley; in Cold Spring by marked trees & across fields or near fields to country road near Col. Examination & Inquiries. Oct. 18. 1858.

I walked down from Smiths Ferry to the head of the canal, more than two miles, near the river, west of the road or path in the woods that I formerly travelled in. In the upper part there is flat, pleasant land near the river, generally cultivated, east of this the land is higher. In the lower part there is a high, steep bank next to the river, & hills still higher further east. About half way between or a mile below the ferry and a mile above the canal is a piece of level land near the river and an orchard on it, and this is the land where Brewster's house stood near the river. Formerly boatmen and raftsmen, were all along here waiting for their turns to enter the canal, and be taken through. The boatmen congregated at this tavern, and raftsmen. Herbert Smith, a man about 56 or 58 years old, has seen the time when rafts and other craft lined the side of the river from the head of the canal up to Smith's ferry, two miles or more, so he said. They fastened their rafts to trees on the bank of the river. He said little about boats. There was a road, is now, though not used, from Brewster up the river some distance, & then easterly across the lots to the road through Falls woods.

The road from the head of the canal, & head of the falls, so called, is 1765, laid in 1765, is still there, & is presumed to be the same. It went near the river some distance in 1765, and is now near the canal; then came upon higher land & left the river and went a little west of the house of Alonzo Lamb deceased, near where Wm Taylor formerly lived, on the Pynchon lot, and so on to the foot of the falls. Taylor's sawmill was west or a little southwest of his house. I did not now follow the road beyond Lambs.

Willard Judd informed me that the Falls Woods people formerly had a sawmill on the river 90 or 100 rods below the head of the canal since canal, and nearly opposite the house now standing, there only one left; two farther N.W. have been demolished. Before the canal was made, there was a considerable fall a little below this sawmill; the dam across the river is not far from the old sawmill place. This Falls woods sawmill must be the one referred in 1765. page 92.

Roads in Falls Woods.

p. 92 The road from Leaping well brook to the head of the falls does not show itself. Perhaps it is the road that comes into the Falls Woods road opposite the old Goodman brickhouse, on the edge of old Falls woods Field. All beyond this road is not now seen. Perhaps it came into this road farther South, where a late Ephraim Smith lived, and is an east and west road that still remains till it turns south by Bramards, Willard Judd's and the old house of Allen Judd between. If so the western part is not seen. West of these Judd houses in the field, or apparently on no public road is an old house, barn, &c, of a Gay Lord, which is said to have been there for generations. There is still another Gay Lord house in the lot, on the top of an ascent, below the old Goodman tavern.

p. 93. 82 p. 35 Percy Smith says that before the canal was made, the South Hadley people that lived in Falls Woods got most of their living by carting by the falls. They kept teams of oxen, often had one or two horses before them. They neglected farming to a great degree; and their farms had a slovenly, bad appearance. There was much carting from the mouth of Stony brook to the foot of South Hadley Falls, and from the head of the falls or canal to the foot of the falls; and from both places, to the foot by Willimantic falls. His father was a carter, and he has often carted in his younger days. There was often carting after the canal was made, when things were out of order on the canal. They used to pay one dollar a ton from Stony brook to the foot of the falls, both ways. He says he has been down & up twice in a day, with a ton each way, making his earnings 4 dollars in a day. But there was not always loading up. He must refer to carting years after the canal was made but not serviceable, and after the boating over Willimantic falls was improved and loaded boats came up to the S. Hadley falls. Molasses, Rum, Salt &c was brought up to these falls, & thence carted to Stoby river. A ton was a good load on the bad roads of former days. Smith says he could draw a ton with one good horse on present roads.

Harvey Smith of Northampton says in his younger years, and later, when the canal or dam was out of order, there was much carting of lumber down the river and goods up (since 1815) from a place on the Northampton side nearly opposite Brantby, or a mile below Smiths ferry, to the old Northampton landing in W. Springfield (about 5 miles) where Jedediah Day lived. He has himself carted much here! Sometimes the Northampton boatmen had all their goods carted from this landing to Northampton, because that was about as cheap as to go through the canal, and accomplished sooner & safer. There was carting on the South Hadley side also in late years. They gave one dollar a ton for carting & wished to call 10 boards a load, when a ton of dry boards is enough more than two tons.

Peter Smith says there were no good fences in Falls woods when he was a boy & shotty brush fences. Fencing timber was not plenty. He thinks most of timber was hard wood as Oak of several kinds, hard & soft maple, some birch. There was much chestnut in some places, and yellow pine, & some white pine.

Walter Stickney born 1790, says since he can remember, logs in great quantities lodged on the low grounds about Stoby river. Some were never taken off but rotted there. Rafts of boards came in there when canal was out by ice, & teams came in every direction to cart boards & wood to pool of canal — from other parts of South Hadley, besides falls wood & some from Granby. Boats used to put in there; boatmen had (omit) in various ways of getting liquor out of casks & putting water in. All the carting was from the South side of the brook. There was no bridge

Carting by the Ac

Carting from Stony Brook — continued. Luther Stuckney, 1st, there never was any carting from the north side of the brook to the landing or docks. Boards went sometimes piled up in immense quantities on the south side of the brook, and there the teams took them.

Rafts of Boards & Logs.

Hervey Smith says that when the canal was in order, or not at a stand, he has known rafts of boards, logs, &c. lining the east shore all the way from the canal to Stony brook, two miles & more; they were waiting to get into and through the canal. Hewn logs were sent through the canal in rafts or boxes.

Several persons think clay boards may not weigh over a ton to a thousand; but wet boards just taken from the water, they estimate at two tons to a thousand. Rafts men used to try to have wet boards called a thousand to a ton; I think they sometimes succeeded.

p. 90. No Bridge over Stony River, Stuckney says, when his father settled in S. Hadley — near the mouth. Sometimes a low cheap bridge was built & carried off by a flood. They sometimes had a foot bridge. Stuckney says there was no bridge there for horses & carriages most of the time since his birth, until the present was built for Cook's Hill road — His father's tavern, he think, had no reference to boatmen; they did not go there he supposes, but only fishermen in the fish season. There was no travel by his house; horses could not pass Stony brook. In his day people on horses went to meeting from his neighborhood by going down to the old Goodman place or Rodney Smith's.

Hunting in So. Hadley & Granby

From Levi Moody of Granby, Oct 19. 1858 — he in 75th year

In his day, and in his father's time before, there was a vast pine plain in the eastern part of Springfield, in Ludlow & Wilbraham. Deer were plenty in these pine woods; he had killed many deer, & the last one in 1820. Had heard of none since & there were few for years before. The pine plain extended into other towns, but in his day most of it was in Springfield

The old hunters in Granby that he knew were Lt David Church (born 1746). Phinehas Smith, probably the second Phinehas born 1747. Asa Smith, son of Experience born 1750, Simeon Moody, father of Levi, born 174.

old hunters in So. Had — he remembers —

Dr. Elihu Dwight, Gardner[49] Preston, Job Preston[56]
Kellogg[49], Josiah[61] White, Selah Smith[64]
Eli Smith. — These sometimes hunted with Granby hunters

The hunting was generally in October; some in Nov. The deer were fat, yet he could hardly tell how they became so on the plains, which were mostly covered with yellow pines. There were swamps, streams, grove, and various places where grass grew — some chestnut & oak lots, &c. Every good hunter had a hound; they always hunted with hounds. The deer when chased by dogs often crossed Connecticut River, & thus usually sought eminences or hills. They ran much faster than a dog, and kept a long distance before them; the hounds could follow a fast track with their heads up, and would make a sort of howl once in 100 or 150 rods. The hunters stationed themselves on eminences, when they expected the deer would flee to, & sent two of their number with the hounds to start the deer, & when they came near they shot one or more — Mr Moody recollects one time when the hunters brought home five deer, all bucks with horns, but they usually got only two or three, sometimes only one & sometimes none. The deers killed were Quartered or cut up & divided equally among the party; all had an equal share. They had a little flip & some jollification, but Mr Moody thinks they had no feasts, no carousals. Deer hunters would complain of those who killed deer in the forbidden season. Mr Moody thinks the forbidden season was much of the year.

Wolves were not about in Mr Moody's day but the early settlers may have been troubled with them. He has known but one since he grew up.

Bears unknown in his day, except one which his uncle Samuel killed, that weighed 400 pounds. Bears injured the early settlers, eat their corn, &c.

p. 140 Game

Turkies were plenty on the mountains, and there were some on the plains. Some acorns, chestnuts and berries were on the plain. Deer hunting was turkey hunting & some others were such at times. They did not go out in parties to hunt turkeys — but singly or a couple. Commonly went to the mountains.

Partridges were numerous on the mountains & plains.

A larger fowl than a partridge was found on the plains — not on the mountains. They were called hessens or heathers. Their habits were different from partridges. [They were undoubtedly heath hens — none have been seen for a long time — perhaps 40 or 50 years.]

Raccoons were plenty in former & later days and were hunted at night with a good dog. He has shot them — seen them when the moonshine bright in the night. The skins were formerly worth 75 cents each.

p. 101 Squirrels were plenty — mostly about the mountains. Some are large — of a dark color between black and grey; some have weighed 2 lbs dressed, it is said.

Woodchucks were plenty — perhaps more plenty since clover became common. Mr Moody has often shot woodchucks — has killed two in this way this season.

Musquashes have always been abundant in the ponds and streams of Granby. He has hunted & shot them when a little below the surface. Formerly, when a boy, musquash skins were worth 50 cents. [This is doubled.

Grey foxes were killed for their fur — were only 2/3 as large as a red fox. Mr Moody says they were shorter legged & would climb trees. (Can this be?) They long since disappeared in Granby. He never saw Otters have seldom been seen but three times & killed two of them. Occasionally one is seen on Stony or Bachbrook.

Minks were caught in traps on the streams or about them — were valuable, not for hats but sent to England as were otter & red fox

102 Hunting in S. Hadley & Granby

Geese & ducks formerly alighted abundantly about ponds & streams in Granby, and Mr Moody has seen many hundreds at a time; and they killed many. They seldom came upon grain fields, or Geese.

Loons are not seen in Granby — there was now and then one 60 or 70 years ago. Mr Moody thinks loons do not scream when on the water or on the ground but only when flying. He thinks they cannot walk on the land, because by aid of their wings — their feet extend back.

Crows have always pulled up corn & still do, in Granby. Blackbirds, Mr M. thinks, do not pull up corn. Mr M. says Crows & blackbirds very seldom rob corn fields in the fall, though such things have been known very rarely.

(Blue Jays were always about as they now are and in the winter would pick up corn in the barnyard, hogspen, &c.

Hewey Smith says large flocks of Turkeys were on the mountain, (Tom.) when he was young (he was born in 1798.) He has seen many in a flock; many were killed. Partridges were more plenty then now. Squirrels vastly more abundant. A man could go out & bring in 8 or 10 black & grey squirrels without a long absence. — Asahel Wait killed a bear on the mountain some 50 or 60 years ago — one that had strayed away. Harry Smith, since grown up, caught a deer (a doe) that was swimming across Con. river & killed it. Probably from the plains — had been chased when he saw it.

M. 14. 406. Pigeons were formerly very numerous in Granby and were caught in great numbers in nets, some with the aid of a flutter or, but more without. They were killed by the thumb & finger; and sometimes a man who caught great numbers had a pair pinchers to squeeze their heads. He had eaten pegeons every day for a month or two. Formerly they were so plenty that men plucked off the feathers & gave the bodies to the hogs; there was no sale for them. The feathers were much used for beds — worth about as hens feathers. L. 1 102.

P. 144 Geese were plenty in Granby, as in other towns

South Hadley and Granby

Hermits making Tar, & Candlewood.

Had. 3.24 Mr Levi Woody, of Granby. Oct. 1858, says, there is a tradition that one or two men lived a hermit's life South of Holyoke before Hadley was settled there and hewed, and burnt tar &c. Tar was made there from candlewood by others; the old beds of the kilns are still seen; he has plowed upon one on his farm within a few years. They made it by heaping and descending, & inclining to a hollow, where the tar all ran out in one stream. They burnt only the old pine knots and fat pieces of pine for tar. Mr W. thinks there was not much boxing of trees, & gathering of turpentine. He is confident that they boxed only yellow pines, and not white pines. (He does not know.) He says every family formerly took the oxen and cart every year, and went upon the plains in that town or beyond, & gathered a large load of candlewood, or old pine knots & pieces of fat pine, for kindlings, & for light. Bits of fat pine were used for torches — to burn cider, &c. Candles were not plenty. The more common light in the evening was the fire, in the winter, was the light of a great fire. Are still used for kindlings. The tar was gathered before he was giving in his young years.

Had. 3.26 Rattlesnakes seldom came over Bachelors brook but sometimes did. In his time two young men from South have been bitten but both recovered. He says they took inwardly the rattlesnake plant, & applied it to the wound. Knows not what the plant is — looks some like a pigweed. Did not know that any ate them. The oil was saved & sold — many years ago, some students from Amherst college & some young men from Granby, used to hunt after rattlesnakes and kill them, about Holyoke

Had. 96 John Alvord was an early settler in the N. part of Falls Wood. He and sons owned nearly the land for nearly a mile from upper end, or below Stony Brook; perhaps more than a mile — so says Cyrus Alvord. Sons John, Elijah, Gad, & Gideon lived there - Saul went to Bolton. Job to Willimansett & Nathan to....

Elijah lived down near a mile, but had a ware house at Stony Brook. Said to have been in side of the hill close to the water, so that boats could load and unload at it.

Gideon Alvord kept the ferry now Smith ferry and lived where Walter Stickney does, but not in same house. Perhaps he was the first ferryman there. The ferry was called Alvords ferry — probably no ferry till after 1770. See p. 166 first ferry was Elias Lyman 1770 (from Cyrus Alvord son of Saml. & G. son of Gad)

1758 Feb 14. Court appointed Thomas White guardian to Gideon Alvord, who is non compos mentis. The Selectmen of S. Hadley had certified that he was so. He acted very strangely. He was insane. He must have recovered.

Hadley 107 | Hist. 2 127 | He petitioned the County Court Nov. 1759 — called himself "master of Arts" — said he had been brought to poverty and want, and through age and weakness was unable to earn a living, though he could keep a small school, but people refused to employ him; is an inhabitant of South Hadley and in need of relief, but selectmen, who are overseers of the poor, refuse to provide for him; must have suffered were it not for private charity. South Hadley appeared by Counsel, John Worthington, and denied that he was an inhabitant. Parties heard and Court determined that he was an inhabitant, and ordered S. Hadley to provide for him.

p. 46 From Mrs Bohan Clark + records

Jonathan White and his son Deac. Enoch White owned a large tract of land in the lower part of Falls field, especially the latter. It seems to have been the lower part of the field next to Pyncheon, 500 acres or more by the Taylors and others. It extended westerly to the river and many acres were cut off by the canal and brought by the proprietors — It extended far east — to Springfield Road, Mrs Clark says. seems to have gone east of the Falls field and on the south joined Titus Pomroy's land, and Wm Taylors, and the Lambs after some years purchased land adjoining. Beyond * Preston lived on a point road south of Enoch Whites, half a mile or more — whether he was on Falls Woods, or Taylors Field, is not certain — Mrs Bohan Clark, Dau. of Deac White, born in 1777, says her father had no way out to a road north or south but through bars and gates — no road to his house. when they started for meeting, or other place on horseback, some one had to get off and open + shut the gates (had been bars). In going south there were gates also — a gate between his father's land + Wm Taylors. Her father had a barn on the lower side of his farm perhaps ¼ mile south of his house. Nov. 10. 1858.

* Preston was probably on Taylor's field. Powlis a poor family, live below Deac White, Enos land. I think. The present road by Preston went south to Lambs Tavern, &c Road through Falls Woods, from the Ferry to go to Wilbrahame, or to a road leading from Springfield to Palmer — petitioned for by Elias Lyndham & others. Began at Elias Lymans.

108 Fishing in South Hadley. Cont. from p. 81.

Levi Moody of Granby born in 1784 - says Oct 26. 1858 - that he used to go to the fishplace early after he was 10 years old. His father had a right in a seine - say 1794 to 1804 & after - to the Connecticut.

Immense numbers came up the fish - all with horses and bags - he thinks 1000 horses were on the side. They caught on both sides of the river at the foot of the falls, and men & horses were on both sides. He says many went for a frolic as much as for fish - many staid 2 or 3 days who might have got their fish in one day. There was much drinking & frolicking & some card playing. Taverns & houses were all full. He says shad were 10 cents each when he was young, (though not in 1794 I think - perhaps 5 or 6 years later.) Some Salmon were caught. He talks of only 1000 shad to a haul - shad were dressed generally, that is, cut off heads & inwards, before they were put into bags, as that made them much lighter. He has seen people go out on the falls with boats & catch fish in scoop nets.

Sturgeon, he says, came up later, or in June, and were speared on the falls. Some came with a cart and carried off sturgeon. But few people cared for sturgeon.

p. 63. Moody says a fishplace a little above the mouth of Batchelors brook, was famous for salmon, more than any other place. He knows not why salmon were inclined to gather together there. There was a fishplace at the mouth of Stony brook, but not so good for salmon.

lost money except the proprietors of the first one; whiskey fell, and many lost money & some were entirely ruined and the business ceased.
For a time, both in the war, rye was 2 dollars a bushel, and even $2.25. From Lew Moody Oct 1865

H. 16.285. Cider was formerly plenty in Granby—all had orchards, & most farmers put 15 or 20 barrels of cider into the cellar, which was brought up by the barrel
p. 144 full. — Much cider was distilled; there were several distilleries—some were small. Cider brandy made many drunkards. — The old apple trees are gone, and there is no cider mill in the town.
p. 144 New orchards of engrafted fruit are growing.
Mr Moody had often had bread & cider in his younger days, and his family know what it is.
No engrafted fruit formerly. From Lew Moody, Oct. 1865.

They framed this first meeting house in S. Hadley now in the house of Alfred Judd & the widow of Solathiel Judd, meanures in length 40 feet & in breadth 30 feet. The posts are of good height, say 18 feet, & it is a comely house

From Emmon Bates & others.

Walnuts & Chestnuts are gathered in S. Hadley, & some are sold.

Whortleberries are brought from Granby & from Pelham, &c

There have been many peaches — they have been killed. I observe many small peach trees, some quinces, & pears. Many engrafted apple trees. Old cider apple trees are mostly gone. Some cider made.

Soap. most people make soap in the old way. Some exchange their ashes & grease for soap brought up from Chickopee. — Some use potash in making soap.

Game

Squirrels & Partridges are found common in lower land but chiefly on Holyoke. — Foxes, skunks, and woodchucks are about.

Muskrats are shot in Spring & set traps towards mouth of Stony brook & Bachelor's river — on Pierce's &c. Bates had a dozen skins. — Some minks are caught.

Pickerel & other fish are caught in a net. Bates & others made a net last Spring, which I saw drying. They are caught in certain places in the river.

Black squirrels — none are seen now a days, and gray ones are not plenty.

Peter Smith says Geese were formerly very plenty in South Hadley and were a great plague. Neighbors sometimes killed each other's geese. Fat goslins have been eaten. They damaged crops sometimes; some wore yokes.

Smith thinks South Hadley makes as much butter as they consume, including seminary. much is brought into town and much carried out.

#144. From Levi Moody, at Granby, Oct 19. 1859

p. 110. Distilling.

Peter Allen & Hawkins had a distillery of Gin in S.H. on Stony Brook, where sash factory is years before there was any in Granby, say 60 years ago. Daniel Warner had one later higher up the stream say 20 rods below present paper mill. both continued some years after the war.

p. 110 All in Granby stilled cider as well as gen—cider pt. of yr. Stilled gin in winter & summer—cider in spring & fall—not vice versa. Some were cider stills before they were used as gin stills.

Fruit.

p. 120 Old Apple Trees are mostly gone—they had much good natured fruit: many engrafted trees now.

Peaches have been very plenty in S.H. & Granby not this year. They had in Granby plenty of quinces; plums some years Pears are more plenty lately.

Made their own cheese & butter 50 years ago. Very few make cheese now. much butter is sent out of town—several tons some say.

p. 102. Geese were formerly very plenty, as in other towns.

All had sheep formerly & all raised flax, and all made cloth of wool & of flax & tow

Nuts had been plenty; chestnut trees all about on the high lands—somewhat plenty now

Shagbarks had been plenty—had sold $1. to $1.50. bushel & some $2.

Chestnuts—some sold, higher than Walnuts

Walnuts not much stolen. Chestnuts always free

Whortleberries—many gathered in Granby—many sold some carried to S. Hadley & sold.

Dewberries many. not many raspberries.

Some Thimble & black berries

Succotash—was more common 60 years ago than now, Mr Moody thinks—was all a common corn, as white ears to roast. Sweet corn not known 60 years ago, about here.

Granby.

"An act for incorporating the 2d parish of South Hadley in Co. of H. into a town by the name of Granby." 8th year of George III. 1768.

Beginning at a pine tree in Springfield line 160 rods west of Stony brook, on the edge of a large grass-pond, thence N. 6° W. to a ditch 80 rods E. of Ebenr Brown's house; thence N. 7½° W. 153 perches to Stoney Brook at S. side of Bay. Chunk's lot — then down said Brook to N.E. corner of bridge, called Chunk's bridge — then to S.W. corner of Nathan Smith's homelot — then to W.N.W. corner of heirs of Samuel Moody's houselot to a stake & stones, on S. side of road leading up Cold Hill — then easterly, on S. side of said road till it comes to road leading from Cold hill to Phinehas Smith's — thence S. & S.W. side of said road till it comes to the road from Amherst to W. meeting house in S. Hadley — then northerly on E. side of said county road to land of heirs of Peter Montague — then eastly on dividing line between Montagues heirs and Phinehas Smith to land of Hez. S. ... — then on east side of Moses Montague's land & land of heirs of Peter Montague to Bachelor's Brook — then up this brook till it comes to dividing line on N. side of said ... between lands of Jos. & Moody & Eliaran Nash — then northerly on dividing line to County road aforesaid: then Northerly, straight line, till it comes to where the road leading to Asahel ... crosses Elmers brook, then on E. side of brook — (the rest of the copy of the act is missing.)

It was called a "town".

p. 127. It was set off June 11. 1768. Committee of Gen'l Court came and distributed the old district

Grass Pond is the Slipe, or Slipe mead. 5 — not mowed now. Cranberries on south side of it — but many bushels — Old Slipe was much larger, in Granby & S.H.

1771. Jan. 23. Southampton applied to Silas Billings of Hatfield to teach Singing School. He refused because he had not a strong voice.

Granby. New Constitution.

Constitution of Massachusetts,

Granby did not send a delegate to form the Constitution ~~for~~ 1779 nor 1780, but after it was made, Capt. Phinehas Smith appeared as the delegate of Granby, June 7. 1780. when the convention again met to see if two thirds of the people had approved the constitution; if they had not, the convention was to alter it so as to make it acceptable to two thirds; & they were to agree when it should go into effect.

The Convention after examining the returns a long time, voted June 15, that the people had accepted every article of the constitution.

The convention was dissolved June 16. 1780, having resolved that the first General Court be held the last Wednesday in October. Towns were to choose representatives in October, at least 10 days before the last Wednesday. They were to choose Gov. Lt. Gov. Councellors & Senators on the first Monday in Sept.

South Hadley

Had a delegate in 1779. "Hon Noah Goodman Esq."

Amherst,

also had a delegate in 1779. Mr John Billing.

Hadley like Granby sent none till June 7. 1780. — then Mr. Charles Phelps.

The convention first met at Cambridge Sept 1. 1779 James Bowdoin, president and Samuel Barrett, Secretary — They convention adjourned Nov. 11. 1779 to the 5th January 1780. to meet in the Representatives chamber in Boston

They met again in Boston Jan. 5 and continued to March 2. 1780, & finished the constitution.

met again June 7. as above about the acceptance of the constitution, &c

A previous constitution was formed by the General Court, acting as a Convention, & finished Feb 28. 1778. It was submitted to the people at meetings held before June 15. 1778, and rejected by a large majority.

South Hadley — from Mrs Powers born 1790

First meeting House — Stood north & a trifle west of the 2d house — did not stand on same ground with the 2. The house was removed to where it now stands. When Mrs Powers (born 1790) says when she was young, Noah Goodman lived in it — some have lived there. Ithamer Goodman 163 lived down the street in an old tavern house which had been Josiah Smith's. He was deranged at times — did not take care of his family. She thinks he did not keep tavern.

b. 176 Old School house stood next north of Alfred Judd's (old meeting house) was two stories & gambrel roof — now a dwelling. Falls Woods N. & S. had corner came here & all that way. a schoolhouse & district. A small district at Falls or canal.

Potash stood west of Jos. White's towards Rubbers Hole, when she was young — does not know whether it was in operation

Titus Goodman built the Dr Dwight house a great building and sold it to Dr. D. It was the old Nash place. Old Nash place was a little south of present house — she does not remember the house certainly. Goodman meddled with several things in business — prospered in none Not accounted honest. Self important.

p. 110. First Gin Distillery — she young — Peter Allen & a Connecticut Collins from Blue hills point. No cider distillery there — was where Sash factory is — Grinding at a grist mill where Stephen White's factory is — a little above distillery. Grist & saw mill at that place ever since she can remember — 12 owners of saw mill. Benoni Preston when he left Falls Woods bought the grist mill. This was the old Preston mill. House moved on the ground over the river to E. side & back again to west side where it stands.

2d Distillery — built by Dwight, Mr Daniel Warner & a little below road & paper mill. Still gone. Malt house is there. Grist mill was where paper mill is — was once owned by Col. Woodbridge.

Distilleries from Jonathan Burnet born Dec. 1779 He says the Distillery built by Peter Allen & Ebenr. Collins of Conn. was built in 1806. He knew the year for certain, was when sash factory. The mill for grinding which they seem to have owned was where White's factory is, north of distillery. Burnet thinks they distilled grain 20 years or more. Had rye from near by and from a distance. May have distilled each part of two or three seasons. Some distilleries did so

The Distillery below the paper mill & road was built some years later (10 years perhaps) by Dr Dwight, Jos. Strong and Daniel Warner. Was carried on some years

Jona Burnel says the deer Hunters were Phins. Smith and Asa Smith of Granby and Gardner Preston, Job Preston & Doct Elihu Dwight of South Hadley. He had seen 4 deers which they had killed or they and others, in one day.

Distilleries in Granby

p 110 Burnet says there was five distilleries in Granby Two on Bachelor's Brook, Clarks, & Smiths & and three on Slave street or two & one near. Thes. on small brooks – a large stream not necessary except for mill. He did not tell where their grain was grown 2 mills on slave street were owned by many farmers and another by seven farmers – perhaps twenty were concerned in all. Many ruin among farmers when they failed.

Some years when apples were plenty they distilled cider or some did a part of the season

First occupier of Old Meeting House. In 1770 a road ten rods wide was laid, beginning at an oak tree a little south of John Chandlers house, & running E. 27° N. 9 rods to the S. East corner of the school house. John Chandler must have occupied the old meeting house. 1770, and probably was first purchaser.

The School House in 1770 was nearly opposite the Woodridge house or now Dunlaps, being 2 rods from Chandlers House or thereabouts. One was more than 30 & 40 yards 2 o. (Mr Tyrrell

Josiah Knowl. S.H. of S.H. was visited by Dr Crouch from 1740 to 1756, or his family. See Dr C. p. 104. Had wife, son, dau, &c

John Marshall a prominent man in S. Hadley, is not remembered by those now living 1859.

John Chandler. They seem not to know where he lived. Some think he had lived in old meeting house. see opposite Dr Crouch names him 1756 & 1759. p. 176, 177

John Marshall lived in S.H. 1752 to 1757, according to Doct Crouch p. 172. & was son in law of Giddings of S.H. (Granby) Dr C. p. 173 — In 1766. he is called "Gent." in the Court records, & he sued a man for "merchandize" £2.10.7. He sued a Coleraine man for £6.14.3. not said for what Old Meeting House, now the house of Alfred Judd and of the widow of Salathiel Judd.

Jonea Burnet says the house was never moved — was built where it now stands, and school house right east of it. The Judds have the same notion, that their house is where it was when a meeting house — Others have an idea that it stood further South & was moved — Mrs Powers is confident that her father, Gardner Preston, who lived at the time, said it had been moved. She thinks it stood nearly in the road or space that crosses the square south of where the house now stands.

Burnet says Noah Goodman lived in the house when he was young — say 1790, &c He had kept tavern there he thinks, & was there as far back as revolution All say Noah Goodman lived there latter part of his life & died there — Sometimes a son was in house with him — Some say a Chandler had lived in the house formerly.

Ithaman Goodman, all say, was irregular, or partially deranged — could not take care of his family. Could not have kept tavern unless he was different formerly. A notion of same that he married a Daughter of Rev. Mr. Woodbridge. Burnet says he lived for a time in old Smith Tavern, a little above where Burnet lives.

Cutting down Old Meeting House

Mr Burnet says the Granby men cut down the south end of the house or frame — cut off the ends of two plates and of posts below, & then pulled over the whole end or it fell over, & one pair of rafters must have gone with it. It was raised up again with the beam across the top, & the ends of the plates were spliced, & fastened with iron gripes bolts or iron dogs. There were iron fastenings, Burnet & others have seen all this splicing.

The three sticks of timber carried to Pitchawlem swamp & thrown over a steep place into the swamp, Burnet says, were stolen from the timber while they were framing it, & did not belong to the one that was cut down. They were hid in a Cart swamp.

Ithe is right, I think.

164 South Hadley

p 169 Canal Village.

When work on Canal began (1792 one says) the men with whom I conversed were boys, & knew but little about it, but went down to see the doings. viz. Simeon Judd born 1786. Ephraim Smith born 1782, Jonathan ~~Judd~~ 1779. Burnet 1779.

1 Sawmills there were three — the upper one had been owned in part by Goodmans — Joel Lyman of Northampton owned a part, or one of that Lyman family.

2 Next below was Taylor's Sawmill, or had been

3 Lowest one was near where paper mill was built afterwards.

Four Taverns are mentioned — perhaps only three were cotemporary — Pennel Pooler kept the upper tavern near the upper end of canal, he was a famous Stutterer. Capt. Josiah Bennett kept a tavern down in present village, and below him a Hillman. Lamb is also mentioned but perhaps was earlier. Widow Pomeroy is also named.

There was much rum-selling & drinking at the canal. No regular trader is recollected, but men sold rum, molasses, tea, salt & some groceries — not dry goods. The Clarks from Easthampton traded & were building a store when one was drowned. Another went down, & the idea is that the store was built & some trading done in it.

Farmers carried down produce &c to sell after canal was begun; there was some market for them.

Buttery Brook had no mills on it — no machinery. Jacob Robinson built a house there, and Bardwell a tannery Potash. Burnet lived in Granby till he was 16 or till 1795, & afterwards in South Hadley. He remembers a potash back of Joseph Whites, towards Lubbers Hole. Thinks Joseph White carried on the business there. Has no distinct recollection of a potash in Granby. There might have been one there formerly.

Gristmills. Burnet mentions but three, Col. Woodbridge's where the paper mill is — and one at Moody corner. and one where Stephen White is, & old Preston mill.

Sawmills. There was a sawmill with a gristmill, where Stephen Whites factory is (had been a gristmill at least & perhaps as a sawmill from early days) — no mill formerly below there on Stony brook, & none between that & Woodbridge's. Burnet thinks there were three sawmills on Bachelors river — lower one in South Hadley, and two in Granby. Knows of none in Granby.

N.H. Vol. 2. 372. Riding on a Rail, from Burnet

John Queen, brother of Hugh that was killed by lightning, was in bad repute, for what reason does not appear, and many turned out & rode him on a rail and abused him. He complained of them & they were indicted and heavily fined.

* Probably son of that one.

166 South Hadley

Physicians. One man says Doct Bissell was their first Physician after Doctrs Crouch and Kellogg, before Doct Dwight — Doct Vinton considered of Granby, but doctored in South Hadley some

p. 176 Old Meeting House, first one, is the same building that Mrs Wright kept a school in — (when my sister Sarah attended.) There was then an addition back of it, which is not now there. (about 1802 or 3)

Jona. Burnet's House is south of meeting house on the west side of road, on the top of the hill, and was Martin Waits place. He married Martin Waits youngest daughter, & she was born here in 1782, and has always lived here. He was born 1779. Dec.

Old Smith Tavern, where Josiah Smith lived is north of Burnet's house — has a house on the lot but the large old house has been torn down.

Col. Woodbridge had a long store a little north of his house — Burnet supposes he once kept an assortment of goods.

Jahleel Woodbridge traded Burnet says — & had a shop in the highway near the house where he's father lived. — [Col. Woodbridge had a shop in 1771 — perhaps it was this one.

Col Woodbridge made great gifts that would make a sound, but was rather parsimonious & saving in small dealings — so say some of the people of S. H.

Noah Goodman. the people say was an ordinary man & deficient in education, but was much promoted by the people. He loved & sought promotion, it is said — (He must have possessed some ability and judgment.

168 South Hadley — from Perez Smith Nov 10. 1859 age 76.
There were three Sawmills at the falls when he was young Upper was called Gaylord's mill. There were 3 owners Middle was Taylor's mill. Lower was Lamb's Mill
There was a Sawmill near Moody's gristmill.
A Sawmill where White's Hadley is Fulling mills.

Dea. Daniel Moody was a Clothier & had a fulling mill somewhere, or had had, and a clothier's shop.
Caleb Ely learned the trade of dea. moody, and had a fulling mill on Stony brook, above Preston's mill on a pond of his own.
Ruggles Woodbridge was a store keeper. Kept many goods sometimes in a wing built out north from his house.
Ithiel Woodbridge kept a few goods in his shop near his house. Went to Boston now & then & bought goods. His shop may have been formerly an office & shop of Col. Ruggles W.
Perez Smith does not remember when Col Woodbridge's house was raised a wrestling party succeeded the raising & a high time.
Noble Bass of Belchertown a great wrestler in those days.
Col Woodbridge put a lobster on his barn
May. John Woodbridge, P. Smith thought, lived above Col Woodbridge's house, on the east side. He is mistaken. Burnet says he lived on west side John Slickney lived & died in Bates's Gambrel roof house.
p 175 Charles Chapin lived in & owned several places.
He removed from town and after his death his

On west side of Meeting house square lived Matt Ayres and Joseph White (Doane house on corner not mentioned) Joseph White mar. a wife from Connecticut with property & with her property he built Jes house, & kept tavern and traded. Shop was north of house.
There was a piazza back of the house or barn. Ayres and Lubbis Hole — not known whether he built it — probably built before. He came to [illegible] frame of house same that Smith's tavern has now.

South Hadley—from Perez Smith

Noah Goodman kept tavern where Rodney Smith lived, in Falls Woods, but not in same house. Removed to old meeting h.

Titus Goodman lived there next & sold the meeting house to Doct Dwight & bought the Nash place & built a large house. Exchanged with Doct D. & had old mh again. Never changed with widow Goodrich of Pittsfield & removed. Miss Wright her daughter kept school in the house—had kept school before. She mar. Peter Allen; one dau. mar a Niles and one mar. Bowdoin. Mrs. G. may have removed about 1806 or 7.

Ezra Day lived next south of Perez Smith.

Azariah Alvord had lived on P. Smiths place—built N. E.

Peter Pendergrass was probably English; a soldier in revolution
p. 25 on our side. Was singular. Wore a red coat to meeting.
p. 142 mar a Crowfoot—no children. Lived sometime on N. Road.

School in Falls Woods when P. Smith attended was opposite Epharam Smiths—the only school south of the centre. Thought Sept 1790 sometimes there was a small school at the Falls.
61 p. Moody corner center to centre school. Children from the Falls sometimes came up to the Falls woods school

Old Pound was S. of burying yard—perhaps in yard now.
perhaps not the place of the first pound.

Samuel Catlin was a saddler—lived on the road from
S. 4 p. 25 Hockanum to Day Brook to Moody corner. His wife died young—left three daughters—Irene lived with Ashbel Woodbridge Lucretia mar a Woodworth; Roxy mar Chester Moody; Betsey mar. Eleazar Goodman Jr.

Reading line by line on the Sabbath had ceased before Perez could remember—but on Sacrament occasions they read & sung line by line some years when he was young

p. 164 The Canal.

Smith remembers the first [illegible]. Says they first built two houses to accommodate themselves & hands, one at upper end and one at lower end of where the canal was to be.
and began to dig the same year (must have been 1792 or 93.
Built a long barrack for the workmen 15 or 16 rods long at head of canal, on old Perez Smiths lot west of his house on one side was a row of sleeping bunks clear through;
the rest of the space was left for a row of tables clear through (secto) and [illegible] each side and passage. Smith judged it was 16 feet wide. It was covered with slabs. The laborers were mostly Yankees—belonged to region around and to towns east as far as Belchertown &c. Prescott was the leader. The Taverns of Lamb & widow Pomeroy or her son are mentioned as being the Other taverns were added—Hillman first & Bennett after on the same place. Daniel Lamb & Bennet sold rum & groceries.
Pennel Poole kept a tavern at upper end of canal. prob. in house built by canal propr. Kept as good a tavern as a man could with his means. His wife cooked pretty well. 4 taverns with Pomeroy. Bardwell was the first general merchant about 1806—had a grist mill and ground much Plaster.
Bardwell was connected with the Springfield Dwights.

170. South Hadley — from Perez Smith & Jona. Burnet Nov 1859

Canal made a market for South Hadley, for small articles, which has been growing ever since.

Bardwell had two brothers who were tanners seem to have had a tannery on Buttery brook. All the Bardwells were originally from Belchertown but did not come to S. H. John B. Josiah B. was deputy Sheriff — he took Daley and Halligan.

Had 3. SH. 175 M. 12 197 Titus & Simeon Goodman kept store next north of the old meeting house, where Rodney Smith kept tavern, when Perez was young. A small store stood there — no house [kept store 1790 to 1795. School House was on corner, a few rods east of old meeting house

From Jonathan Burnet Nov 11. 1859. (born 1779

John Stanley lived opposite Timothy Montague on Chilab's Hill road, on west side. when Burnet was young. There were three houses on east side between Granby & Cold Hill road, and the road towards Moody corner & Amherst, viz

1st. Lower House, Moses White lived in 2d middle House, Israel Clark lived in (2d Israel
3d upper one Timothy Montague — no house between him and Moody corner road

Mr Burnett says:—

May. John Woodbridge's house was north of Col. Woodbridge's, same side of the road; no house there now.

Col. Woodbridge's house was built in his recollection He was from 7 to 10 years old — say 1788. Burnet named some who worked on it. Alvord Edwards Northampton and Reuben Judd of South Hadley. Burnet learned his trade of R. Judd, and he told him about building the colonial house; there was much work on some parts of it — especially about the front door. It was considered an elegant house in those days.

The house of Rev. Mr Woodbridge may have been the same that is now there & occupied by Dunlaps. when Burnet was young. Jahleel Woodbridge lived in the house that is now there. Possibly he had built a new one, but probably not.

Aaron Nash lived in Granby and exchanged his farm with Jonathan Burnet of Brattleboro' (present Jona.) removed to Granby and Nash to Brattleboro. Burnet settled Cold Hill — Dea. David Nash lived at west foot of hill Reuben Smith lived west of Nash on Cold Hill road Dr Vinton lived on the top of Cold Hill — all when Burn was a boy. Abiathar Vinton of Granby was brother of the Doctor — had son Abiathar.

South Hadley — from Jona. Burnet & Miss Powers. Nov 11. 1859

John Queen was called "doctor" — a sort of nickname.

p. 168. Charles Chapin kept a tavern in the Mitchell place, (on John Smith place, opposite the Smith tavern) He afterwards kept a tavern at the Betts place. He sold out to Betts, and hired the old meeting house where Alfred Judd is. He removed from town

John Chandler — those now living have no knowledge of him

p 177 Martin Wait built the new house, some that Burnet lives in, & sold it to Mr. Lyman [illegible] 1845. The house was removed to a place on W. [illegible] street — house,

William Eastman lived first in South Hadley a little below Burnets on the east side of the road. Had a house and little store and was a trader. In the contest between S. Hadley & Granby he was on the Granby side; probably has previously determined to remove to Granby. His farm was not below the bulls. He removed to Granby soon after the separation. His first wife and four children have monuments in S. Hadley grave yard — and would have had I suppose if they had died in East S. Hadley before the separation

Deacon Lamb lived a few years in the old meeting house, & tended some there, since 1793 many persons seem to have lived in old meeting house — perhaps John Chandler

John Stickney traded some in a little shop below the burying ground, but lived in the gambrel roof house. I walked up & back on rode.

School House. When a new one was built, the old one was moved & put on land where the seminary now stands — and Jeremiah Snow, a gold smith, used it for his trade, but not long. He was brother of Doct. Stebbins's wife. This was probably between 1790 and 1800

Wm Wait was brother of Martin. He removed to the Susquehannah

p. 177 Granger, Miss Powers thinks, lived in the Wait house after it was removed, & carried on blacksmith business before Deacon, and perhaps with him.

176 South Hadley

from Jona Burnett & Mrs Powers

Jonathan Smith, oldest son of Reuben, kept tavern at lower part of Canal village, below all or nearly all the buildings, and died there. It was called Hillman's place as though he had lived there or kept tavern there. Some say Hillman kept tavern in Burnett place before him, & some think he kept lower down Road west of the centre, which came up west of present houses, as far before Burnett's recollection there were three houses there when he was young — the three on opposite page.

School House When the old School house was removed to where Seminary is, a new one was built two stories high, about 40 by 30 feet, calculated to accommodate 200 scholars. All from Mt Holyoke to below Butts's came there. Only one teacher for a time — may have been two afterwards. Israel Lyman may be an exception.

p. 139 181

[The new house was sold Sept 1794.

p. 166 Miss Wright kept school in 2 or 3 places before her mother bought the old meeting house and removed to South Hadley. Mrs Powers thinks she went to school to her when about 12 years old in 1802 or 1803. She kept a number of years (my sister Sarah was there about 1808, I should judge,) and married Peter Allen. Mrs Goodrich's first husband was a Wright, the second a Goodrich — both dead.

South Hadley Common

Houses west of m. house square or Triangle.
There were no houses here before the peace of 1783. Where building now stand was a part of the square, and there was a road up the hill west of them — no house from burying yard to Lubbies Hole on the road towards Northampton

1 Rev. Joel Hayes. The first house was built for him in 1783 and still stands.

2 About 1784 or 5. Martin Wait built a new house, the same that Jonathan Burnet now lives in, and moved into it in 1785. The small old house was sold and removed to the corner next to Northampton road. Granger, a blacksmith, lived in it and
p. 175. had a blacksmith shop on the opposite side of the road where Moody's shops now is — James Doane, a blacksmith also, afterwards built a larger house connected with the old one, and worked in the same shops.

3. Joseph White built the third house (or 1st or 2d) between Mr Hayes and Granger or Doane — probably about 1788, and kept tavern; he had a shop north of it and sold goods. —
There was a potash west of White's building;
perhaps built before any other building on W. side

Letter of Dec 19. 1857
Mr Turner of S.H. thinks the land on which these 3 houses stood was private land and not public, & did not belong to the common. I think he is mistaken.

when Apd Ladd lived

Mr Turner says a road 10 rods wide was laid in 1770, from an oak tree a little south of John Chandlers house, running N. 27° W. 9 rods to the S.E. corner of the school house. John Chandler must have lived in the old meeting house. He doubtless just bought it. The old house formerly stood nearly opposite the Woodbridge house where J.W. Dunlap resides, & was removed 30 or 40 yrs since Mr Turner says —
At the same time, 1770 a road was laid from the same Oak tree, southerly to Leaping well brook, 10 rods wide;
and another of the same width west from same N. 42° W. 16 rods to a chestnut tree; where he supposes it entersected the county road near Lubbie's Hole. Mr Turner supposes these 10 rod roads were all the common there was.
He says he supposes White lived in 1770 on the homestead west of this.

Highways & Labor

South Hadley gave for labor on the highways bridges, &c. before the revolution, 2/. a day to Oct. 1. and 1/8 after. Also 2/. for a team & one. Carpenters had 2/4. 2/8. &c — In 1799 highway labor was 8 cents an hour. The town voted for highways 200 dollars in 1796. 400 dollars in 1804. and 600 dollars in 1814.
